

HR Analytics Dashboard

Employee Attrition and Satisfaction Analysis

Presented by: Arun Soni

- Objective:

To provide insights into employee attrition, job satisfaction, and demographics across different departments and roles within the organization. By analyzing patterns and trends, this dashboard helps HR and management teams make data-driven decisions to reduce attrition, improve employee engagement, and enhance overall organizational productivity.

Problem Statement:

High employee attrition is a significant challenge for our organization, affecting workforce stability, morale, and operational costs. The need to understand key factors driving attrition, such as department, age group, job role, and gender, is critical. This analysis identifies areas with high attrition and low job satisfaction, helping HR teams address issues proactively and create a more supportive work environment.

Dashboard Insights (Summarize Key Findings)

- Attrition Rate: 16.12% overall, with higher rates in certain departments and roles.
- Job Satisfaction Levels: Vary by job role, with some roles reporting lower satisfaction scores.
- Demographic Trends: Attrition rates differ by age group and gender, with notable trends in younger and mid-age employees.
- Departmental Breakdown: Sales department has the highest attrition, followed by R&D, indicating a need for focused interventions.
